INTER-CLASS BASKET BALL

Seniors 48; Freshies 12
The seniors and freshmen of Norway High School clashed in a hotly contested though one-sided game, Thursday, Nov. 15th. At the end of the whirlwind, the freshmen set a good example by manfully swallowing their disappointment and forgetting their defeat.

Juniors 13; Sophies 12
A hard and bitter struggle between the juniors and the lowly Sophomores nearly resulted in disaster for the mighty Juniors. It was nip and tuck from the first to the last whistle, the Juniors winning by the narrow margin of one point.

Sophomore 31; Freshmen 10
The Sophies and Freshies held a rough and ready free-for-all scramble on Tuesday evening, November 20th. Poor lighting gave the Freshies a distinct disadvantage in locating the elusive hoop over their taller opponents.

Seniors 65; Juniors 25
The invincible Senior Quintet nearly lost their invincible crown to "Kimmie's Rough Riders" at the high school gym, Tuesday evening. A tie was the result at the end of the first quarter. "Handy Andy" came forward in the second period and piled up a lead that "Kimmie" failed to strangle. The last period, two periods were repetitions of the previous slaughter with Louis Roy and Anders winning medals for the seniors and "Kimmie" heaping up honors for the Juniors.

Birthday Party

Each did justice to everything. All wished Mrs. Olmstead many returns of the day. She found her presents in her chair as she went to sit down for supper.

Charles D. Noyes

Charles DeForest Noyes of Wellesley Hills, Mass., a former Norway man, died suddenly of heart failure Monday evening, Nov. 19. He had been in his usual good health and his death came as a shock to his family and to his friends and relatives in Norway.

Mr. Noyes was born in Hamblin's Grant (now Woodstock) February 10, 1859. He married August 27, 1871, Sarah B. Stowell, daughter of John B. Stowell of Paris. They lived in Portland 1871-82 where their children were born. He was fireman and engineer on the Grand Trunk railway 1870-75; engineer at the Grand Trunk grain elevator 1875-82; Foreman of engine house Old Colony Division of the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. 1882-91; Engine dispatcher, N. Y. N. H. & H. R. 1891-93. Later, he went to work for the Hartford Steam Boiler Inspection Co., and for a number of years came annually to Norway to inspect the shoe factory boilers. By hard and faithful work he rose to an executive position of responsibility and trust with the Hartford Company, well known insurance underwriters, a position he held up to his death.

In Massachusetts Mr. Noyes first built a house in Rosindale, a suburb of Boston, later he built at Wellesley. While on his visit to Norway this fall he took up some tiny spruce trees to reset on his estate at Wellesley—a reminder of the Oxford County Hills he loved so well.

Two children were born to Mr. Noyes who survive him, 1st, Walter DeForest, born in Portland June 7, 1873, who is a lumber broker with offices on Milk St., Boston, and has also built many ships, the most prominent of which are the fleet of nine large steamers consisting of the Walter D. Noyes, Peter H. Crowell, etc., all of which are now engaged in Pacific Coast trade, and 12 or more schooners. 2nd, Lillian Ruth, born Oct. 26, 1882. She married William Roy Amidon and resides at Rosindale.

Mr. Noyes' death is the third among the stalwart sons and daughters born to Augustus Noyes, the Civil War veteran, kindly and favorably known among the older residents of Norway. Geo. Noyes, a brother of Charles, who was secretary and treasurer of the General Committee of Adjustment of the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. system Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, died July 18, 1897, and the other brother, Levi Noyes of Gorham, N. H., an engineer on the Grand Trunk, died Oct. 20, 1910.

Besides the son and daughter mentioned, Mr. Noyes is survived by his widow, sisters, Mrs. Hattie A. Wiley of Somerville, Mrs. Marcia Millett, of South Paris and Mrs. Timothy L. Heath of Norway, and by brothers, John Noyes, who lives on the old home farm on Noyes Mountain, Greenwood, and Ernest M. Noyes of Norway. Mr. Noyes' uncle, Winfield Cordwell, is an aged and respected resident of Norway.

The Noyes family has long been associated with the history of Norway. Bela Noyes and his wife Elizabeth came here from Minot shortly after 1800 and built a humble log cabin near what is now Noble's Corner. He was the great grandfather of this Charles-Noyes whose death we are recording and was a revolutionary war soldier.

Bela Noyes enlisted in the 1st Regiment commanded by Colonel John Bailey and wintered at Valley Forge. Capt. Allen was killed in the battle of Saratoga.

Charles D. Noyes was a kindly God-fearing man who was eminently successful in his venture from the Oxford Hills into Massachusetts and his death comes as a distinct loss not only to those who knew and loved him here back home, but to his business associates of the sister state. Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at his late home and interment will doubtless be at Pine Grove.

If newspapers told the truth, the newspapers would not only be put out of business, but about sixty per cent of the people of each community would leave town. If you deny this assertion, your denial proves the assertion.

Elmer Packard of the Norway Shoe Co., S. O. Jellerson of the Carroll, Jellerson Shoe Co., John C. Shepard late of the Dingley & Foss Shoe Co. of Auburn, and John W. Wood, maker of infant's shoes, left Thursday morning for a hunting trip in Upton.

"Sully," the ever ready baseball player, arrived from Portland last Saturday. He was discharged with democracy and Ku Kluxism. Like Fred Keith, his enthusiasm along these lines was boundless.

He left Monday for Wilton where he had a job shoe cutting. When he said he had a job shoe cutting, when he said here he was known as George Sullivan.

If it is desired to use the radio-frequency amplifier on a double-circuit tuner, the loop is merely replaced by the secondary winding. The primary winding of the tuner is then connected directly in the antenna circuit. It may be found necessary to connect a wire across the grid and the antenna terminal. This is the ground lead from the primary coil to get quiet operation. For a single-circuit tuner, the inductance unit would be connected directly in place of the loop; that is, one end of the tuner would go to the antenna and grid, and the other end would connect to the ground and grid return to the potentiometer. In this event the grid condenser on the potentiometer is not needed across the inductance, so it is preferably connected in the antenna or ground lead.

Efficiency Dry Cell Life
Short

Therefore, most of the time during which a dry battery is supplying current, it's working at much reduced efficiency. Actually, the efficient life of a dry battery is seldom longer than three or four months, although frequently the results of lowered battery efficiency are not recognized as such, and the battery is used until it is entirely dead.

Where the reduced efficiency of the dry battery is noticed, an attempt is sometimes made to overcome the results of the drop in voltage by adding more cells, but this method has a decided drawback, as it means considerably increased resistance in the circuit for the available voltage to overcome.

Many Have Appendicitis
Don't Know It

Much so-called stomach trouble is really chronic appendicitis. This can often be relieved by simple glycerine, buckthorn bark, etc., as mixed in Adlerika. Most medicines act only on lower bowel but Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, and removes all gasses and poisons. Brings out matter you never thought was in your system. Excellent for obstinate constipation. L. V. Ashton, druggist.

HIGH SCHOOL FAIR

The important annual event for Norway High School was the fair, supper and drama Friday afternoon and evening, under the auspices of the Athletic Association. Everything went along with enthusiasm and precision, making one of the most successful affairs in connection with the high school.

The sale opened in Norway Grange Hall at 2 o'clock in the afternoon with a tempting display the various booths. Lavender and white was the color scheme used about the hall and booths, and a great amount of labor had been put into this attractive booth.

An octagon booth in the center of the hall was devoted to fancy work of exquisite design and material. Hilda Russell, June Smith, Lucy Cobb and Olive Dinsmore attended to customers here.

Another table loaded with aprons of all kinds was handled by Dorothy Flint, Doris Stone, Bernice Dulles, Nellie Glines and several assistants. School banners and arm bands were sold at a booth in charge of Beatrice Drake, Hazel Kimball, and Inez McAllister. The fine pillow made by Hazel Bicknell was on display at this stand with Zilpha Bicknell in charge of the contest which would determine the winner. Doris Merrill held the lucky number and possesses the coveted article.

Home made candy, salted peanuts etc. found a ready sale at the table where Clara Hall, Helen Dulles and Flora Stevens exchanged the sweets for coins. "Ye Old Country Store" carried a variety of sample products and useful ingredients for table and pantry. Marita Cushman and Junetta Dinsmore looked after this department.

Mystery packages were hauled from a well with bucket and rope. His novelty was named "Ding Dong Ball" and attracted a large patronage with Elizabeth Hall, Frances Moore and Ruth Holt filling the bucket and collecting dimes. All the boys in school furnished the articles and the collection was varied and altogether amusing. Many surprises developed at this dry fountain.

A large variety of vegetables at the "Aggie" booth, not only advertised the agricultural class as good farmers but excellent market men. George Young and Norman Annis were behind the counter while Charles Everett canvassed with post cards for chances on the Rhode Island rooster donated by Manford Palmer. Ten dollars and more was collected on this bird which was won by R. W. Bickford. A bushel of Irish Cabbler potatoes raised from certified seed by George Young was drawn on a split ticket and divided with Manford Palmer and William Walker.

An ice cream parlor on the stage was an attractive lay-out presided over by Gladys Barker, Irene Witham, Winona Young and Clara Mattor. A tempting menu in connection with the ice included hot apple pie, cake and postum.

Eldith Joslin, concealed behind a tapestry curtain, read palms for a modest fee. A happy mixture of fact and fiction delighted her patrons, and she had the credulous guessing hard.

A number of articles contributed to the fair by donors outside the school brought large returns through the sale of numbered postcards and guessing contest. The beautiful electric table lamp given by the Central Maine Power Company was won by Mamie E. Twitchell. The fine rug from Eastman & Foy, furniture dealers, went to Mrs. Hortense Gates. An artistic oil painting done by Mrs. Lena Andrews and donated by her, was awarded to Marion Downing. This handsome canvas, showing a woodland scene, has attracted considerable attention in the Elliot Fuller Co. exhibit, where it has been on exhibition a week or more.

Supper was served at 6.30 in the Grange dining hall and over two hundred attended. The menu included baked beans, salads, cabbage, celery, and fruit, pies, cake, tarts, doughnuts, pickles and cranberry sauce. Mrs. Nettie Nevers, who has been in charge of these suppers for several years superintended the tables and was assisted by the senior girls. Henry Favor, Paul Holden and Earlard Emerson helped in the serving room and the senior boys were ushers at the tables. A large corps of mothers or sisters of the seniors ably assisted in the serving and were, Mrs. Howard L. Drake, Mrs. B. F. Bradbury, Mrs. Orin Stone, Mrs. Robert Kimball, Mrs. Woodbury Russell, Mrs. Carl Foss, Mrs. Elton Brown, Mrs. Robert F. Andrews and Mrs. William Young. Rev. O. B. Tracy, pastor of the Congregational church said grace.

An audience of nearly six hundred people gathered at Norway Opera House after supper where a cast from the school presented the three act comedy, "A Feller Needs A Friend." The play was uproariously funny, with the scenes in a dilapidated room of an apartment house in New York city, showing the ups and downs of two fellows dead broke.

The story introduced Tom Denker, (Roscoe McKay) an artist, and his chum, Bob Mills, (Howard DeCoster), a magazine writer, stealing the dog's milk and the parrot's crackers to keep from starving. Mrs. Reese, (Hallie McKee) their slovenly and temperamental landlady, threatened to turn them out "bag and baggage" if they failed to settle for room rent. More trouble came when Jerry Smith, (Louis King) just home from "Over There" arrived at the room dressed in a sheet and overcoat. He was also a member of the hard-luck fraternity, because his clothes and money had been stolen.

In this condition of affairs Tom received a visit from his uncle, William Denker, (Holman Tucker) a wealthy and bossy old gentleman, who was not aware of the real state of affairs. An aunt, Alice King (Lucy Cobb) and her wife, Elaine Lynne, (Beverly Gilman) also appeared on the scene of the trouble. About the same time an Oriental rug, "The Rug of Truth," arrived. This was a gift from Tom's father, recently deceased. Persons standing on this rug were unconsciously compelled to tell the truth, and this bore directly on the outcome of the story.

To carry out a prosperity bluff played on his uncle some years, Tom coaxed the landlady into a scheme to fit up the room, and also won her consent to borrow her step-daughter, Liz, (Phoebe Cobb) for his wife "pro tem." The girl was "game" but a decided shock to the fashionable visitors.

This arrangement, especially with the incongruous Liz, steeped in the essence of East Side and presiding over the house, standings. The appearance of Angela Scott (Madelyn Burgess) and "Bing" Dickson, (Elliot Anderson) who was "Liz's steady," added to the misery inflicted on the principals. The plot thickened quickly with every character in the story walking a slack wire to keep up appearances.

"The Rug of Truth," saved the day. As the characters inadvertently stood on the mystic mat, the real facts came out, and of course everything was ironed smoothly with a general matrimonial climax. The whole piece bristled with ludicrous situations.

All parts were well acted and the comedy was put over in a snappy manner with no dull moments. Harold Anderson, who staged the show added one more success to his long string of shows for the high school.

True's orchestra furnished excellent music for the play and dancing. The various prizes were awarded by Principal G. E. Lord and Sub-master Leroy Luce. A group of students from Oxford High school attended the play and remained to the dance.

Ford
Four-Door Sedan

Inside and out, the new Ford Four-door Sedan shows improvements of far more than usual importance.

It is lower and sturdier in appearance. New cowling, hood, radiator and apron add size and finish to the front. Sun visor, and wide, well-finished aluminum doors with bar handles perfect the design of the body.

Silk window curtains, deep broad-cloth upholstery; dome light, door lock, window regulators and handles, all finished in nickel, complete a refinement you would expect only at a far higher price.

This car can be obtained through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan.

Walden and the Famous Chinook
Arthur T. Walden of Vinal Haven, N. H. owner and driver of the famous dog team, and perhaps the more famous leader, Chinook, has been a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Cummings the past few days.

Mr. Walden is much enthused over racing with dog teams. In an interview he declares New England is the ideal place for this exciting sport as this section has a wonderful opportunity during the winter if the sportsmen will bestir themselves. The noted racer states the sport is unorganized with no official rules, and this must be held down with heavy penalties for harsh driving, and for other things which are objectionable to the public. He suggests strict uniform regulations to make it easy for the dogs, but throw the hardship on the drivers.

Walden has hauled racing dogs the past twenty-six years, with seven years experience in Alaska. After a long period of success in the races, the blow fell two years ago when several dogs in his team died, leaving but two for a foundation upon which to make another start. Chinook, the leader, survived, but the veteran will be succeeded by Kaltag in the new string of nine sturdy fellows now in training. The veteran will go back in line, to be led by younger blood.

Mr. Walden plans to visit Norway with his new outfit sometime this coming winter and hopes to bring a bunch of winners. Last season the team was a failure according to the owner's standards, for the dogs were picked at random, owing to his late date in reaching the Northwest. Several racers in the new team are sons of Chinook and inherited his speed and endurance.

According to Mr. Walden, the best racers are half breeds or possibly quarter breeds. He blends full blooded Eskimo for endurance, with breeds famous for speed. His idea is a mixture of Eskimo full bloods and German Police would fill all requirements perfectly.

Among many interesting things he told about his dogs and their racing was the fact they are trained to obey vocal commands and not a whip. Mr. Walden carries a whip to defend the animals against themselves, for the wolfish instinct to fight is strong and the dogs may break into a frolic without a moment's notice. Thus the whip as he uses it, is not for punishment, but for peace.

Practically only four words are used in guiding the team, but the infliction of the voice is the cue for fast or slow, a gradual or a sharp turn, etc. The familiar trade expression "He knows his Master's Voice" may be applied appropriately to dog teams trained by Arthur Walden.

Pythian Sisters Notes

Lake Temple has accepted the invitation from Minnehaha Temple at Stoneham to visit there Saturday night, Nov. 24. A supper will be served at 6.30. Lake Temple officers and staff will confer with the Pythians. Mrs. Sadie Lopham and Mrs. Mary Kimball are in charge of transportation and will provide for all wishing to go.

Children's Night will be observed on an evening in Christmas week, date not yet fixed.

At the next meeting on Dec. 4, an interesting program will follow the business session.

Methodist Church Notes

Next Sunday, Nov. 25th, the pastor, Rev. T. C. Church, will preach at the hour of Morning Worship, 10.45. Sunday School at noon.

Evening Worship will be "committed" that all may attend the Union Thanksgiving Service at 7 P. M. at the Universalist Church.

Congregational Church Notes

Thanksgiving will be emphasized in the sermon Sunday morning, services commencing at 10.45. Good music by the choir. Church school at noon with a large attendance every Sunday.

Junior Christian Endeavor at 3 o'clock with Ellen Tubbs the leader. The attendance the past few weeks has jumped from a dozen to thirty-five and more with the interest keen. An attendance contest commenced Sunday to continue until January. Captains of the two sides are Ida Gammon and Harry Smith. Something new in a musical line is being attempted each week to awaken interest and vary the order of exercises.

The Sunday evening meeting will be omitted for Union Thanksgiving services in the Universalist Church at 7 o'clock. All those who have made articles for the fancy table are asked to hand them to some one of the fancy work committee on or before Dec. 1.

Elizabeth Crockett Blake Tent, Daughters of Veterans, will hold their regular meeting Friday evening at 7.30 o'clock. Full rehearsal will be held and it is important that every officer and color-bearer be present, as this is the last rehearsal before the inspection which takes place at the first December meeting. Friday evening, the 14th, a delegation of Daughters went to Portland, Wednesday, and visited the Annie A. Gould Tent, at their annual inspection. Supper was served at 6.30. All report a fine time.

Five of our subscribers have had their papers changed to go to their winter homes in St. Petersburg.

A public whist will be held at the home of Miss Della Noyes, Friday evening, Nov. 23. Proceeds are for the Universalist Church piano fund.

Interior view of the living room suite and hall of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Cummings of Falmouth were recently seen on the society page of the Portland Sunday Telegram. This attractive home was recently completed and is spacious and beautiful. Mrs. Cummings will be remembered as Miss Mildred L. Frost, daughter of J. B. Frost of Norway.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Hutchins visited Mr. and Mrs. Evander Whitman on Grover Hill, Bethel, several days recently. The Whitmans have their store at West Bethel ready for occupancy.

The remains of the power station is being moved along the sides of the highways in Ward 8 waiting cars for shipment.

John Hutchins, who underwent an operation at Dr. Pierce's Hospital in Buffalo, N. Y., is gaining rapidly and expects to leave for Maine the last of this month. He may visit his daughter, Mrs. Richard Lasselle at Gardner for a time before returning home.

Forrest Longley has bought a Henderson motor cycle and is busy learning the trick of navigating safely.

Arsene Blaqueiere while digging on Pearl street Tuesday for the water service, found the top surface of the street frozen to the depth of four inches.

Windows of grocery stores are beginning to assume a Thanksgiving Day aspect, suggesting a feast day at a nominal cost.

Several people interested in racing dogs called on Arthur T. Walden and "Chinook" at Fred H. Cummings this week. Chinook is without question the most noted dog in the United States. He has been entertained at the most exclusive hotels and banquets, and his memory is preserved on miles of picture film.

Funeral services for George W. Holmes were held at his late home Saturday afternoon, Nov. 23. Rev. O. B. Tracy of the Congregational Church officiated with the Masonic lodge in attendance. There were many beautiful floral offerings. The bearers were Henry B. Foster, Merritt Welch, Herbert F. Andrews, Llewellyn H. Cushman and burial was in Norway Pine Grove Cemetery.

Gross receipts from the high school fair, supper and drama are reported over $400. A neat profit will be realized.

You can have the Advertiser wherever you go provided you pay in advance and give correct post office address. Try it. It is like a letter from home.

Harry Lovejoy, who held a lease of the Whitcomb field on Orchard street, has given the use of the parcel for an ice rink. A committee from the Board of Trade has selected a suitable spot and wooden banks will be made at once. The rink will have electric lights and of sufficient size to accommodate at least three hundred skaters at one time. A toboggan chute is planned for Oscar Bennett's field nearby.

Edwin C. Chick has closed his engagement at the shoe shop for employment at the W. P. Tuttle Co. factory.

Rev. and Mrs. O. B. Tracy and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Herriek and young daughter plan to camp near Kezar Falls next Monday and Tuesday. The men folks will cruise for deer and secretly expect to capture their limit.

HARRISON

"Go to Church Sunday"
Go to Church Sunday will be observed at the Baptist Church, Harrison, Sunday, Nov. 25, at 10:30 A. M.
The decorations will be appropriate for the season, consisting of corn stalks, all kinds of vegetables, autumn leaves and red berries. All the vegetables loaned or given will be marked for whom the donor wishes them given at the close of the service, the committee is in charge of the decorations. Mrs. Oscar Robbins is putting a great deal of time and effort into this part of the service and we feel sure the church will be made to look its prettiest.
The choir acting as committee on music for the occasion, Miss Mona Greene, organist, will be assisted by Arnold Merrill, violinist; Miss Laura Long of Bridgton will be the soloist. Mr. Witham, a most efficient pastor of the Federation of Churches, Harrison, will give the discourse.
At the close of the church service a Rally Day programme will be given during Sunday school in the vestry below.
An invitation is extended to all and it is hoped that each one will make a special effort to come and do their bit to make this Harvest meeting the largest and best meeting of the year.

Carload green horses at O. M. Cummings Livery Stable, Norway, arrive Nov. 26, Norway Buick Co.

Kezar Lake Salmon Spawning
We took a look at the salmon in Great Brook recently. There were a hundred or more in it coming from Kezar Lake to spawn. Game Warden, J. D. Grover, who lives near by was with us hence no poaching was done.
He keeps a sharp look out over the water and says the fish are not killed as no one is disposed to do so. The fish are not fit to eat at this season. Many visitors come to see them and good paths are beaten along the brook and around the spawning beds.
The number and size of the salmon vary each year. There were many that would weigh more than eight pounds, possibly twelve pounds.

Closed Camp and Migrated
Kenny C. Gurney, the naturalist, has closed a busy season at Kezar Lake with six weeks of quiet rest at his Stoneham camp. Here he watched the rising sun and the going down thereof undisturbed. The moaning wind and rustling leaves were music in his ear.
Kenny came to Norway, Monday and will visit relatives and repeat the same in Boston en route for St. Petersburg, Florida, where he will entertain brain-fagged professional men at Brown's Sunny South Apartments.
Last year he promised to write us of the doings of home people wintering in that vicinity. He made no promise this season but we expect to hear from him.

Women are the most peculiar creatures on earth, as has been said before. While a Norway woman was poor she dressed to kill. Now that she is rich, she dresses so plainly that preacher's wives look like movie queens when compared with her.

Mrs. Eva Kimball entertained a few friends at a dinner Saturday evening. Mrs. Minnie Sanborn, Portland was a week end guest of Mrs. H. L. Horne and Helen and Mildred Holmes. The Barton Reading Club meets Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Emma H. Mann. Roll call will be answered by quotations from Henry Van Dyke and Thanksgiving stories will be read by members.

THANKSGIVING

Across the sea we observe nations struggling under difficulties far greater than those confronting us; scanning the states, we discover several less prosperous than Maine; in our travels we observe few communities equal to our own; among neighbors, we can always see some less fortunate than ourselves. When we consider our blessings, national, state, local and personal, we can all find ample reason for thanksgiving.

A TIMELY TALK—HEED IT

Samanthy Allen at the Harvest Supper
Written and read by Mrs. S. I. Jackson
Samanthy Allen from Saratoga wall now that me.
An I'm right glad to see you all, I surely be.
When I got your letter, Josiah and me
Was jest startin' out for Florida
Where its always summer, you see.
So this talk came kinder sudden
An I've writ it in a note.
My poor old brain won't hold half enough
Since we've had to show the man how to vote.
(Hurdle through here)
There's the True's Bitter an' there's the At-wood's Bitters.
Josiah allus takes a dose after a meal like tonight
An generally after he eats fritters,
An there's my vanity mirror,
I'm awful glad that aint broke,
I like a good substantial one
Them little things is a joke.
An here's my package of corn starch,
I says to Josiah, "I spose,
I'd better fetch it along now."
Everyone is powderin' their nose.
An there's our last two doughnuts,
Our favorite lunch you see.
But where in the world air them notes?
O, here they be!
Now when I read "Come to our Harvest Supper"
A good wholesome talk is what we lack!
I did, Josiah Allen, fix a shunt
Good church folks is gettin' slack.
What they need is a little Scripture
On top of their supper to make them stir.
Why all the churches "I close their doors
If this 'Let the other fellow do it' habit
Runs along too fur."
An Josiah says, jest like he allus does
My Josiah never fears,
"You're jest the gal, Samanthy,
"I take 'em by the ears."
An tell 'em how it should be done,
You needn't have no fears.
You know jest how to handle the folks
"Thout causin' any tears."
Now aint that jest like a man?
They either jest at us or fatter.
But that aint what I come to talk about
What's more important matters.
The Sunday Congregation's jest a few mere scatters!
There's folks enough a turnin' out
When it's a case of filled up platters.
Now I know it's human nature
To want to eat and take things easy,
Especially when we're prosperous.
It makes us feel sort a breezy.
We pay our liberal pledges
An some pay rent for reviews.
An a few of us go set in them once in a while
When there's nothin' better to choose.
"O vanity of vanities," saith Ecclesiastes,
The preacher,
"Test broken be the golden bowl,"
And Solomon, the son of David, teaches,
"The Righteous eateth to the satisfying of his soul."
Now most of us belong to some good order
An' march in a body once a year to church.
The minister hearns up to see so many (But come next Sunday an' there's jest a few left in the lurch.)
Now you an' me an' all those others felt like he did!
"Twas catchin', He gave us somethin' new to think about.
Well, I would be jest like that every single Sunday
If we'd all spunk up, get ready, an' turn out!
Let's try it, an' go to meetin' in flocks jest like the birds!
Now I hope you won't hold what I've said
agin me
But, "He that hath knowledge spareth his words."
So I guess I'll be a leavin'.
An Josiah waits, I know.
Yes, I can see him out by our old Henry,
A pacin' to an' fro.
He's grown most awful nervous
But there I'm always on the go.
Well, good bye! Good bye everybody,
Samanthy's comin' Joel!

WHAT IS OLDEST KNOWN ROAD MATERIAL?

Doubtless the oldest material for a road was wood, in the form of branches laid across muddy stretches of paths, much as the familiar "corduroy" road is still made today in backwoods districts.

But the oldest hard road material is stone or brick, and among the claimants for honary age in considering the first forms of built highways, is asphalt. Some commentators of the Bible claim that the word "asphalt" in the quotation "slime had they for mortar" to build the Tower of Babel should be translated as "bitumen" which is asphalt.

However that may be, there is no doubt about the translation of an inscription found on a paving block in Babylon. It reads:

"Nebuchadnezzar, King of Babylon, he who made Babilgia and Ezida glorious, son of Nabopolassar, King of Babylon, the procession Street of Naba and Mar-duk, my lords, which Nabopolassar, King of Babylon the father who begot me, made a road glistening with asphalt and burnt brick; I, the wise suppliant who fears their lordships, placed above the bitumen and burnt bricks, a mighty superstructure of shining dust, made them strong with bitumen and burnt bricks as a highway road. Naba and Mar-duk, when you traverse these streets in joy, may benefits for me rest upon your lips. Life for distant days, and well-being for the body. Before you I attain eternal age!" Those who traverse smooth asphalt streets in cities are thus linked with an era of at least 500 years B. C. in the roads they use, although from ancient times until about 1855, asphalt, then to be obtained only from nature (it is now a product of petroleum manufacturing processes) was neglected as a road material.

WHO WILL BUILD NATIONAL HIGHWAYS?

Nine States in the East and North-eastern part of the Union, although they have but 5 per cent. of the area of the United States, possess one-half the national wealth.

Some taxpayers in these States, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, sometimes argue against the idea of national highways to be built and forever maintained by the National Government, on the ground that they will have to pay half the cost of such roads.

Probably they will. But they have to pay half the cost of all the expensive hauling now done over all to bad roads of the nation. These nine States, paying half the taxes of the nation, have to pay half of all national works. They have to suffer half the ills of all national reverses. They have to pay half the cost of the money lost by all the other States.

It is as impossible to live outside the working of the law of economics as it is to work outside the laws of nature. The apple falls, be it in Maine or California, and the tax paid, is half collected from from half the wealth. The expense of poor roads is half the national wealth. The expense of poor roads is half the wealth, which suffers half the loss. And while half the cost of the whole country-wide system of national highways will eventually be paid by the nine States in which half the wealth is located, they will also reap half the benefits though they possess but a small part of half the mileage of the proposed system.

GRAVEL ROADS NOT EQUAL TO HEAVY TRAFFIC

For several years past the Maine State Highway Commission and the engineers in its employ have repeatedly stated that gravel surfaced highways would not give satisfactory service on heavily travelled trunk lines, that is to say, on lines carrying an average traffic of over five hundred vehicles per 12-hour day. The conditions prevailing on several of the trunk lines during May of 1923 indicated that the Commission's fears were well founded, for on many of the gravel roads failures were reported.

In this connection it is interesting to note the following article from the Wisconsin Highway Commission's official bulletin received at the office of the State Highway Commission:

"A study of this year's highway traffic and highway conditions brings out in an outstanding way that on the main arteries of the state gravel surfacing is not giving adequate service, says the official journal of the Wisconsin road surfacing on such main arteries as 10 and 17 are not in as good condition as last year or the year before. The surface is quickly worn off by the heavy traffic and becomes rough and uneven. Thousands of people can testify to this fact."

"Highway engineers have foreseen this condition long ago. As has often been said, a road is much like a motor truck. You cannot put a 10-ton load on a 5-ton truck. With the tremendous increase in traffic we are attempting, metaphorically speaking, to put 10-ton loads on 5-ton highways. Despite patrol maintenance the load increases to a point where the gravel road cannot adequately carry it. "It is the experience of the Wisconsin Highway Commission that from two to three inches of gravel are lifted off the heavily travelled main arteries every year. Eventually a higher type of road must be built to carry the traffic."

TAXATION FROM THE PRODUCER'S STANDPOINT

George W. Q. Perham of Woodstock, in an address at the Assessors Convention Nov. 14, championed the farmers cause in the great economic struggle. His theme was "Taxation from the Producer's Standpoint," and he has been quoted as follows:

"In all industries except farming, the taxes are considered a legitimate part of the expense of production and are passed along in the price of the product, for the consumers to pay. This seems to be a fair way to take care of a portion of the taxes. With the farmer, it is different. The cost of production is not allowed to be a factor in establishing a price for his products. Our products are perishable and must be moved quickly. The dealers know this and force the price to the lowest possible figure, without any allowance for taxes, but the price becomes surprisingly high when this product reaches the consumer. The farmer having received only 33 per cent. of the consumer's dollar, has to look for his tax money from some other source which is usually working away from him, or cutting timber from his farm, which is the equivalent of borrowing money to pay his taxes."

"Our present plan of taxation based largely on tax on real estate places several hardships and injustices on the producers, whose property, both real estate and personal, is open to taxation while a large amount of intangible property of greater value and far greater earning capacity escapes taxation altogether."

"We cannot go on indefinitely increasing the tax on real estate and personal property used in production of the necessities of life, without seriously handicapping the producers, especially the agriculturist whose property cannot escape the eye of the assessor. Neither can we reduce the amount of money necessary to carry on our educational and highway system, provide for our dependents, and do all the other things that modern civilization demands."

"A graduated income tax seems the most fair and just method of reaching the enormous amount of wealth in the banks. Government and municipal bonds, domestic industrial stock, and other tax-exempt securities. While the money invested in these things cannot be taxed, the income from it can be, and should be, made to contribute to the support of our local institutions."

"We must have more sources of revenue."

"The people are demanding more and more of the Government, and in the next breath are cursing the taxation necessary to provide the increased service, and abusing the Government for the increase of public officials to carry out their demands."

"This has gone on until one out of every 12 wage earners is a public official, whose duty it is to wait-on and be supported by the other 11," continued Mr. Perham.

"As a producer of food for the people I look with apprehension to the increase of this army of non-producers, who are ever ready to dodge taxes, and the ease with which these and other poll tax payers vote for large appropriations that must be met by increased tax on property."

"We must broaden our basis of taxation. We must get back to the first principles of the tything man, and take from each man according to his ability to pay."

"This is our great problem which if solved, would lift half the burden of taxation from the present tax payers, and place it on shoulders amply able to bear it. It is a well known fact that over half of the property in our State does not pay any local tax. An additional tax on gasoline may be considered, inasmuch as the price has dropped about 20 per cent. since the present tax rate was levied."

"A tax on intangible property sounds good to producers, and will be good if it can be so arranged that it will not react as an added burden to our industries."
